REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board of Stratham, New Hampshire:

It gives me pleasure to submit my annual report as Superintendent of Schools, the eighteenth in the series.

The total yearly enrollment in the local schools has varied in the last twelve years from sixty-two to eighty-six. That of last year was seventy-six. The total enrollment to date this year is forty-six. It appears, then, that unless a very unusual number of people move into Stratham, this year's total enrollment will be the smallest for a long time. Your consolidation of the Winnicutt School with the Plains School makes the present enrollment in the latter school almost equal to each of the others, the numbers in the three schools being sixteen, eighteen and fourteen. Twelve pupils finished grade six last June and entered junior high schools in Portsmouth and Exeter. Six entered grade one of the local schools in September of this school year.

It is probable that seven Stratham pupils will graduate from the Exeter schools this year and ten who are now in grade six will enter there in September.

Since the enrollment has fallen so much and seems likely to remain at its present level and since the numbers in the various grades of the local schools are nearly equal, the time is favorable for a combination and reassignment of grades, with grades one and two in one school, three and four in another and five and six in the third. The chief reason for such a plan is, of course, that with two grades of nearly the same age, instead of six grades of all ages, in one room the teacher could adapt her work and teach in a much more effective way, and the material taught could be much more abundant and better suited to age and stage of development. In addition to that, the whole life and morale of the school could be better adapted to age. Study, play and living habits of sixth grade pupils are very different from those in the first grade, and obedience is secured in different ways at different ages. The plan would place with young children the teacher best adapted to them. Similar assignment of teachers could be made in the other grades. In addition to the unusual condition of small enrollment, we have now the further unusual condition, for Stratham, of having in our schools only one teacher who was here a year ago. Good attendance, and satisfactory progress tell us, nevertheless, that the very effective work done in recent years by the experienced teachers, no longer in our schools, is being done with credit by the present staff. It is a cooperative group of workers whose members see the pupils and their parents as a whole. The school nurse is, of course, a part of our staff, and her work is commended to your notice as being of increasing worth to the children for whose health she cares. She has completed dental work for all pupils this year, an item involving much planning, many interviews with parents, and skill in co-operation. .

An increase of one hundred per cent in the time given to the schools by the Supervisor of Music is having a naturally favorable and expected result. Since this is done with no increased appropriation of money we can be still more pleased.

Your continued good care of the physical plant of the schools is apparent. It is much appreciated by the teachers whose teaching time must be shortened when there is much housekeeping to be done. With no exception our teachers are good housekeepers in their schools. They are, however, better teachers when housekeeping duties are made fewer. Your installation of maps and globes where needed has added to the efficiency of teaching.

For the second year, I present to you several extra tables of statistics. I believe a comparison of the school costs and activities of the districts associated with you can be of help, and I hope the daily and yearly life of our local schools will be better understood by all who read the statistics.
